

Your Family Culture and Traditions

Culture changes as time progresses, so the way things were when your parents and grandparents were young are probably slightly different from how things are now. Make an effort to interview your family members and find out about your family history and traditions. Use the following questions, and perhaps come up with some additional questions of your own.

Use the text box below to record answers to the following questions:

1 What kind of music did you listen to when you were young?

2 Were there any differences between education when you were young, and now?

3 What were some of the events happening in the world when you were my age?

4 Are there any resources I have now that you wish you had when you were young?
